Fidelity, Dempsey share recognition

SCRANTON - Fidelity D&D Bank and local architectural firm Dx Dempsey were recognized Monday by the Environmental Defense Fund and U.S. Sen. Bob Casey for their environmentally friendly West Scranton office.

The Dunmore-based bank's office, which opened in August, was designed by Michelle Dempsey of Dx Dempsey with a number of energy-saving and environmentally friendly features.

"It is possible to move forward and develop a strong business model based on sound economic and environmental principles," said Fidelity Chief Operating Officer Dan Santaniello.

DEP: Gas drillers foul water wells

BRADFORD - The state Department of Environmental Protection is blaming Ohio-based Schreiner Oil and Gas Inc. for fouling at least seven water wells in the McKean County township. The DEP said the company's 26 oil or gas wells caused methane gas to migrate into the underground water supply, fouling two water wells with methane and five others with high levels of iron and manganese. The company is providing bottled water to the affected residents and paying for one family to stay in a hotel because of methane in their well.

Lackawanna County emergency official apologizes, recants on remarks

Lackawanna County's director of emergency services told residents of a Massachusetts community last month that for years county officials lied about having a backup 911 communications site. Director Tom Dubas has since recanted, saying his remarks were
